(1) The Guest Quarters
(2) Sir K Sheshadri House
(3) Padmalaya.

Great difficulty is experienced in furnishing the marginally noted buildings at Mysore whenever they have to be fitted up for guests

2. The building known as Guests' Quarters was constructed in 1891 and articles of some furniture were then supplied. Most of these have now become unserviceable. Sir Sheshadri Iyer's house and Padmalaya were acquired without furniture. Every time that these buildings have to be fitted up for guests, articles of furniture have to be hired either locally or sent from Bangalore.

3. In 1909, the Executive Engineer submitted an estimate for Rs. 4,775 for furnishing the Guests' Quarters and Sir Sheshadri house. The estimate was not sanctioned as Government ordered that "this may lie over for the present till the necessity for the same is accentuated".

4. The necessity is accentuated since the transfer of the charge of these buildings from the Military Secretary to the General Secretary. The resources of the General Secretariat in the matter of furniture and supplies of Guest Houses are very limited.

5. A start may be made by the provision of Rs.3,000 in the ensuing year's budget (1911-12).

buildings require furniture & their no so that they may be fit for occupation, the ~~guests~~ distinguished guests at any time the year.

Provision may be made as proposed — 29/III/11

The provision is very necessary. We have on hand only a few ordinary pieces of furniture for the use of officers guests who come for the Dasara & who are put up in rented houses only. The articles are neither not of the quality suited for places for like the Sheshadri house nor is the quantity on hand sufficient for furnishing such buildings. Hence
